

Edgemont Junior/Senior High School

English Department

Summer Reading 2021

Thank goodness, our activities during Summer 2021 won't be as restricted as they were in 2020! With the pandemic much more under control, we can get out, go to camp, and visit with friends and family, while still taking precautions against COVID. One experience from this past year you DON'T want to give up, though, is reading time! Be sure to save plenty of time to relish the experience of diving into books when you're not diving into water.

To help you get started on that delightful experience, the English Department will ask you to read two books this summer. While one of those books will be a core book at each grade level, giving you a head start on a text that will become important in next year's English class, the second book will be one of your own choosing. It might come from the provided list of wonderful books (starting on page 8), it might be the book you heard your friend raving about, or it might be something you've found lying around the house during the pandemic. Wherever you find it, have fun selecting the second book (and maybe the third, fourth, fifth ...), and read!

Please find your grade core books listed below, along with a few guiding questions or note-taking suggestions and/or requirements. Please remember that this book IS required. It will be the focus of discussion, activities, and writing early in the new school year, so you will want to know it well. Also, if you will be entering a modified or an honors class, please check for any special instructions.

One other engaging activity involving both reading and writing that might interest you is the 12th Annual New York Times Summer Reading Contest, which will run from June 11 - Aug. 19 and which The Times describes in this way: "Every year since 2010, The Learning Network has invited teenagers around the world to add The New York Times to their summer reading lists. So far, more than 70,000 have done so... Every week, we ask participants to choose something in The Times that has piqued their interest, and then tell us why. At the end of the week, judges from the Times newsroom pick their favorite responses, and we publish them. It's that simple." For further information, please check this link.

Grade-Level Core Books

Grade Seven: Red Kayak by Priscilla Cummings

Life has been good for eighth-grader Brady and his friends J.T. and Digger on the Chesapeake Bay, until the arrival of rich folks and developers angers some family and friends. The tragic overturning of a kayak raises questions, and Brady soon faces difficult moral decisions.

Please take notes or use post-its to mark points of interest, major characters, important events, significant settings, and key ideas.

Grade Eight: Refugee by Alan Gratz (Please note the different assignment for English 8 Modified below.)

- Josef is a Jewish boy in 1930s Nazi Germany. With the threat of concentration camps looming, he and his family board a ship bound for the other side of the world...
- Isabel is a Cuban girl in 1994. With riots and unrest plaguing her country, she and her family set out on a raft, hoping to find safety and freedom in America...
- Mahmoud is a Syrian boy in 2015. With his homeland torn apart by violence and destruction, he and his family begin a long trek toward Europe...

All three young people will go on harrowing journeys in search of refuge. All will face unimaginable dangers—from drownings to bombings to betrayals. But for each of them, there is always the hope of tomorrow. And although Josef, Isabel, and Mahmoud are separated by continents and decades, surprising connections will tie their stories together in the end.

As you read, please take notes, either through the use of post-it notes or by keeping a reading journal. Be prepared to work with these notes during the first weeks of our English class. While reading Refugee, consider the following questions:

1. Consider the reasons that Josef, Isabel, and Mahmoud's families have for leaving their homes. What are the situations in each of their lives that force them to flee? How are their situations similar and how are they different?

2. Discuss the personalities of each of these young people: Josef, Isabel, and Mahmoud. Each of them has to take charge of their families' plights at different points in their story. Describe the points at which each young person has to act as an adult.
3. Compare the method of travel for each of these refugee families. How does Josef's sea voyage compare to those of Isabel and Mahmoud? What is the most threatening part of each of these voyages, and how do those threats create obstacles for the families as they travel?
4. What is the theme of this book as expressed through the central characters?

NOTE- Because of the length of this novel, incoming eighth-grade students are encouraged but not required to read a second summer novel.

PLEASE NOTE: Students entering English 8 Modified are required to read The Giver by Lois Lowry and one other book.

The Giver by Lois Lowry

When Jonas turns 12 he is singled out to receive special training from The Giver. The Giver alone holds the memories of the true pain and pleasure of life. Not until he is given his life assignment as the Receiver does Jonas begin to understand the dark secrets behind this fragile community. Now, it is time for Jonas to receive the truth. There is no turning back.

Grade Nine (regular English 9): The Glass Castle by Jeannette Walls

In this memoir, Walls narrates the story of her spirited, frustrating, and fascinating adventures as the child of two brilliant but irresponsible parents who winp homeless in New York.

As you read this memoir, please do the following:

1. Use post-its and/or mark your text to note significant passages and to comment or ask questions about the text.
2. Pay particular attention to these points:
 - a. the various settings and the effects of these settings on the characters
 - b. the deeper meaning(s) of "the glass castle"
 - c. the positive and negative sides of the parents and their effects on their children

3. A movie of the novel came out a few years ago. If you watch it, be ready to discuss what you think translates well from the page to the screen and what doesn't. In what ways does the movie differ from the book?

Students entering English 9 Modified are required to read The Outsiders by S. E. Hinton

The story covers two weeks in the life of Ponyboy Curtis, a teenager trying to determine his place in a society in which he believes he is an outsider. Ponyboy is a "Greaser" from the East side of town. He and the other Greasers are in a constant battle with the "Socs," the rich kids from the West side of town.

As you read this story, please do the following:

1. use post-its and/or mark your text to note significant passages and to comment or ask questions about the text.
2. consider these questions
 - a. What does it mean to be an "outsider?"
 - b. Although the Socs and the Greasers are very different, how are they similar?
 - c. Is Cherry Valance right? Are things rough all over?
 - d. Is The Outsiders a good title for the book?

Grade Ten (including Global Perspectives): The Kite Runner by Khaled Hosseini

When Amir, living in California, is summoned to his native Afghanistan by his father's dying friend, he is forced to confront the memory of his friendship with Hassan, the son of his father's servant. Their relationship was complicated by the fact that Hassan is a member of the minority Hazarra, an ethnic group often discriminated against in the Afghanistan of the late twentieth century, when much of the early story takes place. This moving story of guilt and friendship is set against the backdrop of Afghanistan's history of war and strife, first with the Soviet Union, then under the Taliban and ultimately with The United States, and thus provides an excellent entry into the tenth grade Global Studies II curriculum, as well as being a critically acclaimed work of literature, appropriate for study in the English classroom. While the novel does have some frank portrayals of violence, it is a valuable and riveting story about a part of the world that our media does not often treat with adequate complexity.

Students entering English 10 Modified are required to read Dear Martin by Nic Stone

How does a gifted young black man deal with being falsely accused and arrested by a white policeman? Stone's novel explores his attempts to wrestle with the injustice, in part by writing a journal to Martin Luther King, Jr., questioning whether it's possible to live by King's non-violent principles. While considered YA (Young Adult) literature, this novel deals with mature themes, scenes, and language; in the wake of our nation's current racial unrest, it is particularly relevant and significant.

Use post-its and/or mark your text to note significant passages and to comment or ask questions about the text.

Students entering English 10 Honors are required to read Behind the Beautiful Forevers, either Just Mercy or The Grapes of Wrath, and one other book. If you do not choose The Grapes of Wrath as your second book, please read a work of fiction for your third book.

Written by Pulitzer Prize winning New Yorker staff writer Katherine Boo and winner of the National Book Award, Behind the Beautiful Forevers is a vivid portrayal of slum life in Mumbai, India. It follows the story of Abdul, who supports his family as a trash reclaimer, and who is accused of a vicious crime and has to navigate the corruption of the Mumbai law enforcement and judicial systems. Along the way we meet his family and neighbors in Annawadi, a slum near the airport, and learn about the depths of their poverty and the many obstacles to their daily survival. This work of journalistic nonfiction is frank in its sometimes colorful portrayal, but also very moving and uplifting in its depiction of the improbable hopefulness of these complex, hard-working people.

See what connections you find between Behind the Beautiful Forevers and one of these two narratives: the fictional account of dispossessed landowners who leave Oklahoma during the Great Depression and head for the "promised land" of California in John Steinbeck's The Grapes of Wrath, or Bryan Stevenson's non-fiction work, Just Mercy, in which the founder of the Equal Justice Initiative comments on the American criminal justice system as he presents stories of legal cases fought to defend people, usually poor and/or minorities.

Use post-its and/or mark your text to note significant passages and to comment or ask questions about the texts.

Grades Eleven and Twelve

English Selective Courses

You will not receive your schedule until August, so please choose two of the four books on this list. It probably makes sense to start with your first and second choices of selective courses, in hopes that at least one will be on your schedule. Whether or not you wind up in the corresponding courses, you will be reading great literature, and you will find some overlapping themes between and among the books. As you read, write five journal entries for each book, exploring your personal thoughts and questions in response to five specific passages in that book.

(PLEASE NOTE: Students entering the honors-level 11th and 12th grade courses, please see the separate listings and assignments below.)

Dramatic Arts and Literature: Dear Evan Hansen by Steven Levenson, Benj Pasek, and Justin Paul

In this world-famous musical, we follow Evan, a socially awkward teenager who accidentally "befriends" the troubled Connor, which leads to enormous trouble when Connor dies suddenly, and his family is left to pick up the pieces with only Evan, his "best friend," to help them. Read the text of this play, and when you come to a song, put the book down and listen to the song on YouTube. Be ready to discuss this play in the opening weeks of school.

Immigration in Literature and Media: Behold the Dreamers by Imbolo Mbue

Jende and Neni have immigrated from Cameroon to New York City; they work long hours, struggling to earn money, education, and green cards. Jende lands a job as a chauffeur for Clark, a senior partner at Lehmen Brothers as the 2008 financial crisis takes hold. Clark and Jende's families become increasingly entangled when Neni begins to work for Clark's wife Cindy. Every major character in this novel feels genuine and nuanced; their stories explore the sacrifices that people are willing to make in order to pursue their American dreams. Be ready to discuss this novel in the opening weeks of school.

Satire: Catch-22, by Joseph Heller

John Yossarian, a bomber pilot in WWII, desperately wants to secure what we now call a Section-8, a determination that he can no longer participate in combat due to psychological instability. However, he faces an ironic conundrum: if he requests relief from bombing missions, that fact in itself proves his sanity (anyone rational would do the same). Understandably, Yossarian (and a good deal of his fellow soldiers) try to dodge their missions through absurd ploys. However, like all strong satire, no matter how funny the situations, descriptions, and dialogue, the reader cannot escape facing some weighty truths, in this case about bureaucracy, military leadership, and war.

War and Conflict: The Things They Carried by Tim O'Brien

This book about capturing the “story truth” of war explores O'Brien's experience serving in the Vietnam War. He attempts to capture the feelings and shifting memories from that time, asking questions about the purpose of war, the definition of bravery, the notion of truth, and the effect of violence on the humans who experience and inflict it. Be ready to discuss this novel in the opening weeks of school.

Students entering English 11 Honors are to read Pachinko by Min Jin Lee, The Remains of the Day by Kazuo Ishiguro, and one other book that challenges you. Find and make a note about at least five moments in each text when the voice and tone strikes you as especially significant to the meaning you find in the text as a whole, and five in which the idea of secrecy seems significant. Be prepared to discuss these.

Students entering English 12 Honors are to read Between the World and Me by Ta-Nehisi Coates and The Vanishing Half by Britt Bennett. As you read, use post-its or a notebook to mark passages and ideas you find especially interesting/meaningful.

Please note the two attached lists of recommended books, one for grades seven and eight, the other for grades nine through twelve. Again, your second book does not have to come from this list, but you may want to peruse the selections and see what strikes your interest.

Do have a wonderful summer with lots of great books!

Suggested Titles for Grades 7-8

Last Name- Author	First Name- Author	Title	Blurb
Aronson	Marc	Sugar Changed the World: A Story of Magic, Spice, Slavery, Freedom and Science	This book explores the history and impact of sugar on our world, from slavery to revolution to human rights.
Bascomb	Neal	The Nazi Hunters: How a Team of Spies and Survivors Captured the World's Most Notorious Nazi	This nonfiction narrative tells the story of the seven-year search for Nazi leader, Adolf Eichmann.
Blundell	Judy	What I Saw And How I Lied	Evie must accept her stepfather's rush to expand his business fortune right after WWII, her mother's promiscuity, and a summer crush ending in a trial for murder.
Card	Orson Scott	Ender's Game	Ender Wiggins is a very bright young boy with a powerful skill. One of a group of children bred to be military geniuses and save the Earth from an inevitable attack by aliens, Ender becomes unbeatable in war games and seems ready to lead Earth to victory.
Chao	Gloria	American Panda	Chao explores an Asian American experience with a fun and bright story about Mei, a Taiwanese American girl who started college at seventeen and is beginning to figure out who she wants to be separate from her parents. Though she is pre-med, she doesn't actually want to be a doctor, and may have a crush on a Japanese American classmate. Sweet and light!

Christie	Agatha	Death on the Nile	Famous detective Hercule Poirot has his suspect, but his suspect has an airtight alibi. Can Poirot prove Jackie de Bellefort committed a crime of passion? After all, Linnet Ridgeway did steal Jackie's fiancé and wed him herself—a strong motive for murder.
Christie	Agatha	The Murder of Roger Ackroyd	A mystery. A full cast of characters. Many clues – both real and misleading – cleverly woven together into a story with a stunning finale that no reader could expect.
Dickens	Charles	Oliver Twist	Classic tale of the orphan who falls in with thieves in 19th-century London.
Du Maurier	Daphne	Rebecca	In this novel of mystery and passion, Maxim de Winter and his frightened new wife try to live with the haunting legacy of Maxim's first wife.
Federle	Tim	Better Nate Than Never	Nate travels to NYC, intent on auditioning for a Broadway production of E.T. He winds up discovering a lot about the city, himself, and both funny and serious sides of growing up.
Flake	Sharon	The Skin I'm In	Having suffered the teasing of classmates for everything from her clothes and grades to her skin color, Maleeka is astonished by the strength of new teacher Miss Saunders, who loves herself and life despite her blotched face.
Hansberry	Lorraine	A Raisin in the Sun	In this play set in post-World War II Chicago, the Younger family deals with racism and unrealized dreams. Will they be able at last to leave their cramped apartment and move into their own home?
HEILLIG	HEIDI	The Girl from Everywhere	Nix has grown up on her father's pirate ship, hopping across time using maps from other eras. They finally make it to 1868 Honolulu, around the time that Nix was born and that her mother died. Nix has to deal with the historical uprising of the white plantation owners, the worry that she might no longer exist if they go back to prevent her mother's death, and her father's erratic behavior. Cleanly written and an under-represented setting.
Hinton	S.E.	Rumble Fish	This coming-of-age novel tells the story of Rusty, who wants to be just like his older brother, Motorcycle Boy; but life in a gang can take unexpected turns, and growing up isn't exactly what Rusty had planned.
Hunt	Irene	No Promises in the Wind	In 1932, America was in the depths of a deep depression. A job, food, a place to sleep, and shoes without holes were, for millions of people, nothing more than dreams. The protagonist, fifteen-year-old Josh, leaves home because of conflicts with his father. He has to make his own way through a country of angry, frightened people. This is the story of a young man's struggle to find a life for himself in the turbulent 1930s.

Korman	Gordon	Jake, Reinvented	How does a brilliant but nerdy guy attract the girl of his dreams? Jake has changed his image by joining the football team, throwing beer bashes for the in-crowd, and hiding all evidence of his geek life. For a while, it seems that the act is working—his heart throb, Didi, is cheating on her boyfriend to be with the now ultra-cool Jake. Then, his newly constructed world falls apart.
Law	Ingrid	Savvy	Imagine developing magical powers on your 13th birthday. On the eve of her special day, Mibs Beaumont begins an unforgettable journey after her father is seriously injured in a car accident. Will her magic save her dad in time, and will she be able to control it?
Marsh	Katherine	Nowhere Boy	A timely, poignant tale of family, sacrifice and the friendship between a young Syrian refugee and an American boy living in Brussels.
McManus	Karen	One of Us Is Lying	Of five students in detention, only four survive. Who kills outcast Simon, the creator of a gossip app who was just about to publish profiles on each of the other four? Secrets abound ...
McNeal	Tom	Far Far Away	Jacob Grimm – that's right, the Grimm of fairy tale fame – mentors teenager Jeremy as he and his friend Ginger jump from one adventure to another, including a journey into the evil lurking in Never Better, where children are missing.

Ness	Patrick	A Monster Calls: A Novel	Thirteen-year-old Conor awakens one night to find a monster outside his bedroom window, but not the one from the recurring nightmare that began when his mother became ill. An ancient, wild creature wants him to face truth and loss.
Paolini	Christopher	Eragon (or Eldest, Inheritance, or Brisingr)	In this fantasy novel, fifteen-year-old Eragon, a common boy—or so he thought—makes a discovery that leads him into a dangerous world of magic, elves, dragons and monsters
Pearson	Mary	The Adoration of Jenna Fox	After waking up from a coma, Jenna realizes her body is too perfect to have survived a car accident that forced her parents to move across the country. She also wonders why she can no longer remember basic facts from her past but can recite passages from both classic literature and American history.

Raleigh Baskin	Nora	The Summer Before Boys	Julia and Eliza are lifelong friends who have shared everything -- until the summer that Julia's mother is deployed to Iraq, and Julia develops her first real crush. The girls find themselves drifting apart until Eliza does something drastic to win back her best friend.
Reynolds	Jason	Long Way Down	Fifteen-year-old Will's big brother has been shot and killed. According to the rules that Will has been taught, it is now his job to kill the person responsible. He easily finds his brother's gun and gets on the elevator to head down from his eighth-floor apartment. But it's a long way down to the ground floor. At each floor, a different person gets on to tell a story. Each of these people is already dead. As they relate their tales, readers learn about the cycle of violence in which Will is caught up.
Sáenz	Benjamin	Aristotle and Dante Discover the Secrets of the Universe	This book is about a complex relationship between two boys, one finding it difficult to accept himself and his family. This leads to him being unable to understand or accept love from another boy.
Sepetys	Ruta	Between Shades of Gray	Lina, her brother, and her mother are separated from their father, deported from their Lithuanian home, and sent by the Soviets to a Siberian labor camp. While this grim but heartwarming story is fiction, it reflects true accounts of Lithuanians who were subject to some of the same genocidal conditions as other minorities during the days preceding and during World War II.
Sheinken	Steve	Bomb: The Race to Build- and Steal- the World's Most Dangerous Weapon	In this non-fiction spy tale, the Soviets try to steal the secrets of the atomic bomb that the Americans are trying to build; meanwhile, the Americans are trying to prevent the Germans from building a bomb. Spies dot the pre-WWII 1938 landscape as the fate of the world rests in the balance.
Shmidt	Gary D.	Wednesday Wars	Seventh-grader Holling Hoodhood has several issues to contend with: Wednesday afternoons alone with his teacher while his classmates study religion, Shakespeare assignments, bullies, family needs, and the Vietnam War. Discover Holling's motivation to thrive in this Newbery Honor novel.

Slater	Dashka	The 57 Bus: A True Story of Two Teenagers and the Crime That Changed Their Lives	The novel explores race, class, gender, incarceration, and identity. It explains life from two very different parts of Oakland, California, and two very different families. Sasha is a white straight-A student at a small private school in Berkeley and is agender, meaning they do not identify as male or female.
Smith	Roland	Peak	Fourteen-year-old Peak Marcello gets the opportunity to climb Mt. Everest with his long lost father. This novel is about what happens on that climb, and how that climb changes everything for him.
Stead	Rebecca	When You Reach Me	Just when Miranda and her best friend, Sal, seem to have things figured out in their New York City neighborhood, weird things start happening, which affect not only their friendship but also their lives. Miranda receives four mysterious letters that lead her to conclude she is the only one who can prevent a tragedy from occurring.
Stiefvater	Maggie	The Raven Boys	This book earned the honor of being one of the Young Adult Library Services Association's Top Ten Best Fiction for Young Adults for 2013. In order to prevent the prophecy that she would kill her "true love" from coming true, Blue Sargent avoids boys, that is until she has a mysterious encounter on corpse road. Then her life is changed forever as she works alongside the Raven Boys in search of ley lines and lost kings.
Stiefvator	Maggie	Scorpio Races	In the Scorpio Races, the riders are mounted on Capaille Uisce, beautiful, bloodthirsty water horses. Sean Kendrick, the returning champion, is a man of few words but has a unique understanding of these creatures. Puck Connolly, the first girl to enter the competition, has to win or her family loses everything. They forge an unusual friendship, but only one can win the race.
Thomas	Aiden	Cemetery Boys	A trans boy is determined to prove his gender to his traditional Latinx family , so he summons a ghost who refuses to leave.
Tolkien	J.R.R.	The Hobbit	Once Gandalf, the wizard, knocks on Bilbo Baggins' door, a normal day turns into an epic adventure for the small hobbit. Bilbo's quest is to reclaim a heap of treasure from an angry dragon, Smaug. Is the tiny hobbit ready for the huge task? Discover the answer in the book that begins the Lord of the Rings trilogy!

Venkatraman	Padma	The Bridge Home	Enter the world of homeless children in Chennai, India, as two sisters escape their abusive father by running away and living on city streets, eventually finding a home of sorts on an abandoned bridge. Life is obviously not easy, but compassion still has its place...
Westerfield	Scott	Leviathan	With the Great War brewing, Aleksandar Ferdinand, prince of the Austro-Hungarian Empire, is running for his life. Unexpectedly he ends up aboard the Leviathan, a British whale airship, where he crosses paths with Deryn Sharp, a brilliant airman who happens to be a girl disguised as a boy in the British Air Service.
Wiles	Deborah	Revolution	The paths of white, twelve-year-old Sunny and “colored boy” Raymond cross several times in Jackson, Mississippi, during Freedom Summer 1964. While Sunny struggles to accept her new stepfamily and Raymond impatiently awaits integration, exciting, dangerous, and historic events surround them.
Wouk	Herman	Marjorie Morningstar	Marjorie rebels against the confining middle-class values of her industrious American-Jewish family and tries to find her own way in the New York social world.
Zusak	Marcus	The Book Thief	In the midst of World War II, Liesel Meminger, a foster girl living outside of Munich, sustains herself by stealing the one thing she can't resist—books. She learns to read and, during bombing raids, shares the books not only with her neighbors but also with the Jewish man hidden in her basement.

Suggested Titles for Grades 9-12

Last Name- Author	First Name- Author	Title	Blurb
Adichie	Chimamanda Ngozi	Americanah	This wonderful novel tells the story of Ifemelu, a Nigerian woman pursuing her academic career in America, who decides to move back to Nigeria, puzzling many of her friends and family but satisfying in her a deep need for home and a reconnection to her first love, Obinze, now a successful Nigerian businessman who has his own questions about the way he's living his life.
Adichie	Chimamanda Ngozi	Purple Hibiscus	15 year-old Kambili lives a privileged life in Nigeria, the daughter of a "Big Man" who is also a devout Catholic, and who imposes on her and her brother a strict lifestyle. But when political troubles at her father's paper cause her to go live with her Aunt, a free-thinking professor, and her two cousins, she inevitably questions her strict upbringing. The ensuing conflict exposes much about her family she did not understand.
Ahmed	Samira	Love, Hate and Other Filters	High school senior Maya Aziz is torn between meeting her parents' expectations that she stay close to home for college and her dreams of attending film school in NYC.
Alyan	Hala	Salt Houses	As it recounts the changing situations and generations of a family displaced through the Palestinian diaspora, this novel explores dilemmas and dynamics of love, family, and loyalty.
Angelou	Maya	I Know Why the Caged Bird Sings	In her autobiographical novel, late poet Maya Angelou recounts her difficult childhood and the various influences that led her into a life as a writer.
Atkinson	Kate	Life After Life	The protagonist of this contemporary British novel lives and dies repeatedly over the course of modern British history, inviting readers to wonder: what role can an individual play in the world?
Atwood	Margaret	The Penelopiad	This is a retelling of The Odyssey , from the point of view of Penelope, Odysseus's long-suffering wife. As Atwood says, "The story as told in The Odyssey doesn't hold water" –this version answers many questions, primarily, "What was Penelope really up to" while Odysseus was away all those years?

Atwood	Margaret	Cat's Eye	Through a flashback, narrator Elaine recalls the difficulty of navigating the world of adolescence and the social dynamics of girl cliques. Through her recollections, she gains a better understanding of herself and her place and her world.
Austen	Jane	Sense and Sensibility	The story of two sisters in early 19th-century England, one wild and passionate, the other reasonable and mature, and the romantic tribulations they face.
Austen	Jane	Emma	Charming, willful Emma Woodhouse entertains herself by planning other people's lives, but her meddling backfires and Emma learns a valuable lesson.
Barker	Pat	Regeneration	During the First World War an English army psychiatrist treats a group of shell-shocked young men. They explore vivid flashbacks of the war, their feelings about pacifism and masculinity, and conflicts around social class
Beah	Ishmael	A Long Way Gone	Against the backdrop of wartorn Sierra Leone, twelve-year-old Ishmael Beah sets off on foot to flee the violence, only to be forced into becoming a boy soldier. Once freed, he must learn to forgive himself and heal.
Benioff	David	City of Thieves	During World War II, the Germans brutally seized Leningrad and held it for almost three years, oppressing the Russian civilians who tried to survive amidst crippling shortages of food and necessities, as well as the intermittent fighting between the Russian and German armies. This novel tells the fictional story of two young men, a civilian chess champion and an army deserter, who are sent on a mad mission by a colonel who wants to bake a cake for his daughter's birthday: They have a week to find a dozen eggs in the city, or die trying.
Bennett	Brit	The Vanishing Half	Light-skinned Black identical twins go separate ways when one passes as a white woman and the other stays in the Black community. What does one gain and what does one lose, for oneself and future generations, by assuming a false identity and “passing”?

Bradbury	Ray	Fahrenheit 451	In this science-fiction novel about a bleak, futuristic world, Guy Montag is a fireman who is responsible not for putting fires out but for starting them, using books, which are illegal in this world, as fuel.
Bronte	Emily	Wuthering Heights	The passionate love story of Heathcliff and Catherine explores the degree to which death and time have power over passion and revenge.
Cep	Casey	Furious Hours	This nonfiction work explores the true crime book that Harper Lee, author of To Kill a Mockingbird , worked on for years but never finished writing.

Cleave	Chris	Little Bee	Husband and wife journalists go to war-torn Nigeria and encounter Little Bee, an orphan who is in danger of being swallowed up by the ravages of her failing country.
Conrad	Joseph	Heart of Darkness	Riveting novella from the turn of the twentieth century about a European steamboat captain's piloting of a ship down the Congo, into the "heart of Africa," to retrieve a white ivory trader who has reportedly lost his mind.
Dashner	James	The Maze Runner	Thomas wakes up in an elevator, remembering nothing but his own name. He emerges into a world of about 60 teen boys who have learned to survive in a completely enclosed environment. The original group has been in "the glade" for two years, trying to find a way to escape through a maze. They have begun to give up hope, but then a comatose girl arrives with a strange note, and their world begins to change.
Diaz	Junot	The Brief Wondrous Life of Oscar Wao	This humorous and heartbreaking story follows Oscar, an obese, game-playing aspiring fantasy novelist, as he searches for love among his fellow Dominicans in present day New Jersey.
Donoghue	Emma	Room	Told from the perspective of five-year-old Jack, this is the poignant story of the ways his mother shelters him from the horrors of their ordeal as captives in an eleven-by-eleven foot room.

Dostoyevsky	Fyodor	Crime and Punishment	A complex examination of guilt, self-destruction, and repentance. This novel follows the story of Raskolnikov, a man who believes he has the right to commit murder.
Eggers	Dave	Zeitoun	The riveting non-fiction account of one man's experiences as he tries to protect his property in the aftermath of Hurricane Katrina.
Eggers	Dave	What is the What	This true story follows one of the "Lost Boys" of Sudan. He and many other boys make their way across hundreds of miles of dangerous terrain; when he eventually arrives in America he faces the challenge of adapting to a new culture.
Erskine	Kathryn	Mockingbird	Ten-year-old Caitlin, who has Asperger's Syndrome, must cope with the school shooting that took her brother's life. Caitlin learns social skills in a setting that is both humorous and tragic. Allusions to Harper Lee's To Kill a Mockingbird , which you will read in the 9th grade, are seen in Caitlin's relationships with her father and deceased brother.

Eugenides	Jeffrey	Middlesex	This novel follows Cal, a man who tells the story of his Greek-American family from the time his grandparents knew each other in the old country to his own adulthood in Berlin. It is an often unsettling, often humorous story of a person who, as an adolescent, is forced to question everything she understands about herself.
Forster	E.M.	Howard's End	Set in Edwardian England, this novel concerns the relationships that develop among the life-loving Schlegel family and tensions they face as they get intertwined with both lower and upper class friends and lovers.
Fowles	John	The French Lieutenant's Woman	An inventive novel about Victorian England (written in the 1970's) in which a wealthy young man falls in love with an ostracized woman who had an illicit relationship with a French soldier.
Gladwell	Malcolm	Outliers	This book sets out to provide an understanding of success. Through case studies ranging from Canadian junior hockey champions to the robber barons of the Gilded Age, from Asian math whizzes to software entrepreneurs to the rise of his own family in Jamaica, Gladwell tears down the myth of individual merit to explore how culture, circumstance, timing, birth and luck account for success.

Gyasi	Yaa	Homegoing	Through realistic and moving historical fiction, Gyasi traces the different experiences of eight generations of a family from Ghana: one branch stays in Ghana and includes members who sell others into slavery, while one branch ends up in America and includes both slaves and their descendants.
Harary	Yuval Noah	Sapiens: A Brief History of Humankind	A fascinating look at the development of the human species, from its inception to the current day, through anthropological, historical, political, sociological, and economic lenses.
Hardy	Thomas	Tess of the D'Urbervilles	The moving story of a girl in Victorian England who must cope with being a victim of rape and therefore an outcast. This novel speaks not only to feminist concerns, but to questions of guilt, compassion, and self-image as well.
Hobbs	Jeff	The Short and Tragic Life of Robert Peace	In this 2014 work of narrative nonfiction, Hobbs writes about his former roommate at Yale, Robert Peace, an African-American student who faced challenges moving between two worlds: the world of poverty and violence where his family and friends live, to the world of an Ivy League university.
Hemingway	Ernest	A Farewell to Arms	This story of Lieutenant Henry, an American soldier, and Catherine Barkley, a British nurse, explores the possibility of love amid the danger and uncertainties of World War I.
Hillenbrand	Laura	Unbroken	This is a true account of a World War II pilot's experience being shot down, surviving at sea for many weeks, and eventually being captured by the enemy. It's packed with action and well-researched historical detail, and it presents a riveting picture of one man's perseverance in the face of the horrors of war. Watch for scenes NOT found in the movie!
Homer		The Iliad	Scenes of warfare, wounds, heroes, gods, and a wide range of human emotions fill the pages of this classic epic of the Trojan War.

Ishiguro	Kazuo	Never Let Me Go	A group of friends have grown up together in a strange British boarding school. But where did they come from? Over the course of the novel they all begin to wonder about what purpose they could have in this strange near-future world.
King	Stephen	Elevation	Not only a writer of horror stories, King has moved mostly to characterization and human interactions and is a master of “show, don’t tell.” Presenting a very human interaction between a young married female couple and an older man with a peculiar condition, he brings out the best in people.
Kingsolver	Barbara	The Bean Trees	Outspoken Taylor Greer leaves Kentucky to head west. She becomes mother to an abandoned baby and befriends a young, battered divorcee who also has a little girl. Together they deal with difficult problems, creating a family for themselves.
Krakauer	John	Into the Wild	The tragic true story of a young man’s journey into the wilderness of Mt. McKinley.
Lahiri	Jhumpa	The Namesake	The first child of an Indian family in America, Gogol Ganguli seeks to define himself amidst the Bengali culture of his parents and the American ways of his peers.
Lee	Chang-Rae	On Such a Full Sea	In a futuristic society where everyone is strictly segregated by class, a young woman goes on a quest across boundaries to find the man she loves.
Lee	Harper	Go Set A Watchman	Read Harper Lee's earliest known novel, the manuscript for which was found just a few years ago! In this story Scout returns to Maycomb as an adult, facing both personal and political issues and an aging Atticus.
Lee	Min Jin	Pachinko	Pachinko tells the multigenerational tale of a Korean family that emigrates to Japan. The family struggles to maintain a bond and achieve individual success as they weather prejudice, war, and economic hardship.
Marquez	Gabriel Garcia	One Hundred Years of Solitude	Through the story of the Buendia family, this novel tells the story of the rise and fall, birth and death of the mystical town of Macondo.

McBride	James	The Color of Water	In this combination of biography and autobiography, McBride explores the life of his mother, a woman raised as an Orthodox Jew who marries into an African-American community, as well as his own life as a biracial child.
McCarthy	Cormac	The Road	This novel is set in a post-apocalyptic world of gray skies that drizzle ash. Journeying across this horrific landscape are an unnamed man and his emaciated son whose love for each other helps them survive.
McCourt	Frank	Angela's Ashes	McCourt's stirring memoir of his impoverished childhood in Ireland celebrates his mother's fortitude in raising him and his siblings, almost single-handedly.
McCullough	David	The Wright Brothers	It is hard to appreciate the triumph of the Wright Brothers' accomplishment until one reads of the years of experimentation, discouragement, and persistence that led to their success. The history of the modern world can be divided between time before powered flight and after.
Miller	Madeline	Circe	This novel takes the well-known tale of the sorceress Circe and reframes it from her point of view. A daughter of Helios, Circe is banished to a remote island where she not only turns men into pigs, but casts amazing spells that bring her independence and power. During her eventful life, she meets Daedalus, the Minotaur, Medea, and of course, Odysseus!
Moore	Alan	Watchmen	This graphic novel tells the story of a group of flawed superheroes and the conflicts they face living in a dangerous world that no longer celebrates their accomplishments.
Morrison	Toni	Beloved	In this uniquely-told, powerful novel about the years after the American Civil War, a former slave, Sethe, is visited by a friend of her late husband's, Paul D. As she and Paul D. reveal their tortured pasts, Beloved arrives, a mysterious figure bearing a ghostly secret.
Murdock	Catherine	Dairy Queen	After her father is injured, 15-year-old DJ takes over the lion's share of the work on her family's small dairy farm. Following her summer spent training the rival team's quarterback, DJ decides to go out for the sport herself, not anticipating the reactions of those around her.

Owens	Delia	Where the Crawdads Sing	Part nature story, part coming of age tale, part murder mystery, Owens' novel explores the life of Kya, known as "the Marsh Girl," who from the age of ten raises herself in the marshes of North Carolina, only gradually interacting with others in the nearby community.
Pollan	Michael	The Botany of Desire	How have plants evolved to fit humans' needs and desires? How have we changed, as a result of our relationship to plants? In this compelling work of nonfiction science prose, Pollan explores the symbiotic relationship between humans and plants.
Reinhardt	Dana	The Things a Brother Knows	Traumatized by his experiences as a marine, Levi Katznelson's older brother Boaz comes home and isolates himself. When he leaves, saying that he must do something, Leon follows, trying as they walk and walk to regain the closeness they once shared.
Remarque	Erich Maria	All Quiet on the Western Front	Often called "the best war novel ever written," this classic gives readers a vivid experience of the Western front of World War I, what was at the time the most deadly conflict in human history. We follow Paul, a German soldier, as he navigates petty superior officers, poor provisions, and above all the terror that accompanies being in the trenches, facing fire and gas as he tries to make it to the end of the war alive.
Saks	Oliver	The Man Who Mistook His Wife for a Hat	Saks made a name for himself as a neurologist working on tough cases that seemingly held little hope. His exceptional insights caught the attention of many outside the mental health field.
Saramago	Jose	Blindness	"A city is hit by an epidemic of 'white blindness' that spares no one... As Blindness reclaims the age-old story of a plague, it evokes the vivid and trembling horrors of the twentieth century, leaving readers with a powerful vision of the human spirit that's bound both by weakness and exhilarating strength." (Goodreads)
Saunders	George	The Tenth of December	Contemporary short story writer George Saunders presents a unique vision of the modern world in these stories, some of which are harrowing and others of which are quite humorous. (You must read all of the stories if you choose this book).

Sedaris	David	Naked	In one of his most highly praised memoirs, Sedaris humorously presents seventeen essays depicting his quirky life. From the plague of nervous tics disrupting Sedaris' school years to the hitchhiking days of encountering a motley mix of characters, Naked is the amusement park of memoirs.
Shamsie	Kamila	Home Fire	In this gripping and touching contemporary novel based loosely on the classic tale of Antigone , two British-Pakistani families wrestle with issues of family and cultural loyalty against a backdrop of ethnic discrimination, international tensions, and identity issues.
Skloot	Rebecca	The Immortal Life of Henrietta Lacks	Combining issues of science, ethics, and race, this bestseller tells the true story of a woman whose cells have become the basis of thousands of medical experiments and discoveries -- all while her family lacks basic health insurance.
Slawenski	Kenneth	J.D. Salinger: A Life	This biography details Salinger's privileged youth, and challenges the rumors surrounding his early years and his later years of solitude. Slawenski reveals "the brilliant, sarcastic, vulnerable son of a disapproving father and doting mother and his entrance into a social world where Gloria Vanderbilt dismissively referred to him as 'a Jewish boy from New York.'"
Smith	Zadie	White Teeth	The sweeping story of two friends, veterans of WWII, and their unusual marriages, explores the racial, ethnic, and religious divides in post-war England.
Spiegelman	Art	Maus I and Maus II	Cartoonist Art Spiegelman, using graphic novel format, documents his father's experiences in Nazi-occupied Poland. Spiegelman twists this chillingly real, Holocaust survival tale by portraying the repressive Nazis as cats and hunted Jews as mice.
Steinbeck	John	The Grapes of Wrath	Powerful novel of dispossessed landowners who leave Oklahoma during the Great Depression and head for the "promised land" of California.
Stevenson	Bryan	Just Mercy	In this non-fiction work, the founder of the Equal Justice Initiative presents stories of legal cases fought to defend people, usually poor and/or minorities, treated unfairly by the criminal justice system. The stories mix heartbreak, humanity, and occasional victory.

Stoker	Bram	Dracula	Evil comes to England from Transylvania. The classic vampire story that started it all, this novel has served as a basis for over thirty films and a Broadway play.
Tammet	Daniel	Born on a Blue Day	This is the autobiography of an autistic savant who explores what it's like to be different from early childhood until adulthood, when he finally realizes his true self.
Thomas	Angie	Concrete Rose	A prequel to The Hate U Give , Concrete Rose focuses on Starr's dad, Maverick Carter, as a late teenager. Trying to take care of his mom, he gets caught up in dealing drugs, until he learns that he's to be a father. Then he decides to go straight -- and has to deal with the gang he left behind. What does it take to be a man?
Thomas	Angie	The Hate U Give	After witnessing the fatal police shooting of her friend Khalil, Starr must figure out how to handle the situation -- along with all of the other social and racial issues involved in being a black student at a predominantly white school and growing up in modern-day America.
Thomas	Angie	On the Come Up	Following in her deceased father's footsteps, Bri is working her way up as a rap star while trying to discover who she really is and how her family can survive intact.
Tolstoy	Leo	Anna Karenina	The impossible and destructive triangle of Anna, her husband Karenin, and her lover Vronsky, set in nineteenth-century Russia.
Vance	J.D.	Hillbilly Elegy: A Memoir of a Family and Culture in Crisis	Vance relates his upbringing in the Appalachian area and Ohio during the 1990s. His experiences may remind you of Jeannette Walls' memoir; his childhood takes place about two decades later than hers...but some of their experiences are not so different.
Vonnegut, Jr.	Kurt	Cat's Cradle	In this science fiction satire, technology, science, religion, and human foolishness combine to destroy civilization on the fictitious island of San Lorenzo.

Walker	Alice	The Color Purple	A novel in letters of a black woman's life and her triumph over abuse and grief in Depression-era rural Georgia.
Walls	Jeannette	Half-Broke Horses	Author of The Glass Castle Jeannette Walls writes about her grandmother, who grew up poor on a ranch and learned how to break wild horses, fly a plane, and teach in a frontier town.
Wamariya	Clemantine	The Girl Who Smiled Beads: A Story of War and What Comes After	In this memoir Clemantine recounts her experiences as a young girl growing up during and after the Rwandan genocide. For six years she and Claire, her older sister, seek safety in other African countries before they are granted asylum in the U.S.; but asylum doesn't answer how one copes with such atrocities.
Westover	Tara	Educated	This memoir tells the story of a young woman growing up in an isolated and abusive family, learning to work in a scrapyard but shamed for her curiosity about the world.
Whitehead	Colson	The Underground Railroad	Cora and Caesar, escaped slaves, are on the run. This intense novel weaves realistic situations with magical realism.
Wingate	Lisa	Before We Were Yours	As the director of an adoption organization, Georgia Tann kidnaps poor children and sells them to rich families. Wingate bases her heart-wrenching but also heart-warming book on a true story.
Woodson	Jacqueline	Red at the Bone	Several generations of a family in Brooklyn bear the impact of a complex family history, marked by typical attitudes toward race and gender, and played out against the backdrop of the difficulties faced by New York City in the early 2000's.
Woolf	Virginia	Mrs. Dalloway	This beautifully written exploration of Clarissa Dalloway, a sophisticated, well-to-do British wife and mother, reveals much about gender, class, psychology, and even the ravages of World War I in early twentieth-century London.
Woolf	Virginia	A Room of One's Own	Woolf explores the role of women in fiction, and the presence or absence of women in the literary canon. The essay argues that, for women to participate in the creation of literature, they must have the time and space to do so.

Wright	Richard	The Man Who Lived Underground	In this novel by one of the most acclaimed African-American writers of the Twentieth Century, published posthumously this year, we meet Fred Daniels, a hard-working person of color in 1940's America who is unjustly accused of a vicious murder. To escape the violent police, he descends underground through a manhole cover, and discovers a side of his city-- and of himself-- that he'd never considered.
Zevin	Gabrielle	Elsewhere	Elsewhere is where fifteen-year-old Liz Hall ends up after dying. A place so like Earth, yet completely diverse, Elsewhere is where Liz will age backward from the day of her death until she becomes a baby again and revisits Earth. How can Liz let go of the only life she has ever known and accept a new one?